Workshops & Trainings

for Student Groups & Staff Development

Washington Student Leadership—a program of the Association of Washington School Principals

COMMON GROUND:

Building Trust and Togetherness

Members of a group need to know each other to be successful. Using icebreakers, teambuilding activities, and energizers, the Common Ground workshop helps a group get acquainted, build trust and positively prepare for their tasks. This workshop is appropriate for brand new groups and groups that have already been working together. Recommended time frame is three hours or less.

ASB LEGAL ISSUES:

Developing Best-Practice Strategies

ASB is unique in that the law requires students, advisers and administrators to collaborate on the use of funds for extracurricular activities. This workshop focuses on the rules, regulations, and procedures of ASB law. Participants also gain practical tips regarding budgeting, fundraiser analysis and strategies to stay in compliance with all the regulatory agencies that have an interest in these public funds.

LATINO LEADERSHIP:

Engaging Emerging Leaders

This workshop focuses on providing Latino/a students with essential leadership tools and concepts to enhance their organizations, educational experiences and school environments. Students learn about purpose, direction and motivation for personal and collective success. The workshop is based on bilingual (Spanish and English) and bicultural curriculum, but it is also a valuable experience for other students, teachers and counselors who work with Latino/a students. The workshop is facilitated by Latino/a role models and members of the La Cima and ¡La Chispa! leadership staff.

CUSTOM WORKSHOPS:

Custom workshops can be designed to meet your specific needs. Additional topics include:

Officer Responsibility	Project Planning
Sportsmanship	Parliamentary Procedure
Sensitivity to Others	Teambuilding
Mission Statements	Constitution Revision
Assembly Techniques	Appropriate Humor
Communication	Decision Making
Ethical Leadership	Idea Generation
Meeting Skills	Idea Share
Icebreakers & Energizers	Peer Mentors

BULLYING:

Changing the Tragic Tale

This workshop is based around Barbara Coloroso's pioneering book, The Bully, the Bullied and the Bystander published in 2008. Participants first define what bullying is and learn to identify the specific roles people play during an episode of bullying. Next, practical actions and philosophical concepts that act as antidotes to bullying are presented and discussed. Both individual behaviors and school-wide systems are explored as positive avenues to decrease bullying. The workshop also lends itself to schools that are currently writing or redefining their school-wide harassment, intimidation and bullying policies.

SCHOOL CLIMATE:

Creating Caring and Inclusive Schools

During this reflective workshop, participants analyze their current school climate and generate ideas to improve it. Specific concepts covered are Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs applied to school climate, sensitivity to others, servant leadership and the appropriate use of humor. Additionally, students are exposed to basic communication and decision-making techniques, and they participate in teambuilding activities to strengthen their ability to work together.

TEAMBUILDING:

Forming A Successful Leadership Team

Successful teams have a plan for their effectiveness. Participants in this workshop will answer three main questions regarding their team: Who are we? What are our goals? How will decisions be made? Besides identifying teambuilding strategies to enhance these key components, this workshop will also introduce participants to useful theories regarding the human dynamics of group process.

LEADERSHIP 101:

Developing Foundational Skills

Through experiential learning, participants are introduced to the project-planning model: I•G•E—Initiate, Generate, Evaluate. Specific concepts covered during the workshop include:

Initiate—setting the stage for successful meetings through icebreakers, room arrangement, and goal setting;

Generate—establishing communication and decision making strategies such as talking stick, idea generation, fist to five, value voting, and more;

Evaluate—improving the group process and product.

HOW DO I BOOK A WORKSHOP?

1. Contact Joe Fenbert or Susan Fortin to discuss your specific needs and workshop goals.
2. Once a date and workshop have been selected, Washington Student Leadership will send you a workshop contract and proposed workshop outline for your approval.
3. An invoice will be sent to you after the workshop has been conducted.

WHAT IS INCLUDED?

Facilitators:

Certified facilitators from Washington Student Leadership lead workshops. Facilitators are teachers, administrators or professionals that are involved in some aspect of the Washington Student Leadership program. Most are associated with a summer leadership camp.

Materials & Supplies:

Each workshop participant receives a four-page handout. Washington Student Leadership supplies all materials for activities.

Additional Options:

To add to the atmosphere of your event, you can purchase the following customized Washington Student Leadership items:

folder	1.50 each
pen	.50 each

WHAT TYPE OF FACILITY DO WE NEED?

The best workshop space for us is one that allows participants to sit and listen while a concept is introduced as well as space for small groups activities. Gyms with bleachers and floor space, cafeterias/libraries with tables and floor space, or theaters with a large stage and wide aisles provide good workshop areas. It is also possible to hold a workshop in a local community hall or church that meets our space requirements.

WHAT IF I'M LOOKING FOR A RETREAT?

The outlined workshops and trainings can easily be adapted to a retreat setting. Consider planning a retreat at one of the learning centers operated by the Association of Washington School Principals. The Cispus Learning Center is three hours south from Seattle, and the Chewelah Peak Learning Center is one hour north of Spokane. By booking a retreat at either site, you will receive reduced rates on facilitation fees for our leadership workshops and trainings.
